

CATHLEEN M. PLAUT

Cathleen Plaut served as Bailey & Dixon's Managing Partner from 2003 through 2011. Ms. Plaut has a broad range of business and litigation experience and focuses her practice on employment law, commercial and insurance defense litigation, resolving business disputes and advising business owners on a myriad of issues including contracts, employment issues, purchases and sales of businesses and regulatory compliance.

She frequently appears on her clients' behalf in North Carolina State and Federal Courts and represents them before administrative agencies including the EEOC, the North Carolina Department of Labor and the North Carolina Utilities Commission.

Ms. Plaut has formed numerous corporations and limited liability companies, and acts in an "in house" counsel role for her clients that do not employ "in house" counsel.

She has represented credit unions, insurance companies, colleges and universities, telecommunications companies, state agencies, municipalities and businesses of all types and sizes - from real estate appraisers and restaurant franchisees to research laboratories and software companies. Ms. Plaut's familiarity with both litigation and business enables her to assist her clients in a variety of situations and circumstances.
